SPECIFIC PHOTO INTELLIGENCE REQUESTED:
Plant No. 304 is believed to be the major part of a complex, closely associated with an institute and training school. There is evidence suggesting that plant 304 is the major one of several USSR plants producing ground fire-control radar and associated apparatus, such as the "whiff" AAA radar unit. Navy USNA Moscow Rpt. No. 54-56, 20 Feb. 56 (Cou), reported the sighting of such radar in the factory yard. More recent attache reports have included ground photography of fire-control antennas on factory roof and in yard. These parabolic disks are up to [REDACTED]. If cloud conditions and photo quality permit, following PI is requested: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) Confirm location and general layout of this facility.</li> <li>(2) Estimate size of main factory bldgs: roof cover and stories.</li> <li>(3) Prepare rough sketch of plant, compound, and complex.</li> <li>(4) Note number of antenna units on roof, in compound or elsewhere near complex. If possible, indicate different types of units: some may appear to be antenna pedestals on trailers only, and some may be complete trailer-van units.</li> <li>(5) Report any new construction at this complex since WWII photography.</li> </ol> Kuntsevo Plant 304 is not fully confirmed as Target Ref 15-33, as located, above. It is however, certainly in that vicinity.
